CORRECTIONAL TELEPSYCHIATRY: Face-to-face psychiatric interviews with a mental health professional, regardless of inmate location, via telepsychiatry and the use of audio/video equipment. Telepsychiatry is able to transcend spatial limitations while maintaining the intimacy of the traditional doctor/patient relationship using 21st century technology.

UTILIZATION REVIEW

The CFG utilization management program is organized under clinical leadership to ensure that appropriate clinical decisions drive utilization. Physicians review all such decisions both prospectively, as well as retrospectively. In addition, a well-defined, systematized process involving clinical, custody and administrative stakeholders that establishes clearly-defined roles and includes an information management tool, to assist with communication, is used to assess status and further ensure accountability.

CFG uses CABS (Correctional Audit Billing System), a dynamic proprietary encounter, claims and report management system created strictly with the claims management and reporting needs of jails and prisons in mind.

QUALITY ASSURANCE

Clinical audits and case reviews are conducted to ensure compliance with both accrediting-body and payor guidelines and standards. The goals of Continuous Quality Improvement (CQI) include improving processes, reducing costs, improving outcomes, and increasing quality. Objective, systematic and on-going, our CQI program establishes patient care indicators used to evaluate the quality and appropriateness of care; to resolve identified problems; and to pursue opportunities for furthering the improvement of care.
